

Golosi

Just added!

In case you haven't been glutton'd out by pizza yet, here's more! And they've even got the perfect name, to boot: "Golosi" means glutton in Italian. Roman-style pizzas are the main draw at this joint near Grand Central and if size does matter to you, you're in the right place: The pizzas here are sold by the inch, and cost between 99 cents and $1.50 per, with a 3-inch minimum (although we'd argue that nobody would be thrilled with just 3 inches of anything, eh?). The long, oblong pies come in varieties like margherita and soppressata, all made with crust infused with pork fat to give it that extra oomph. (We also hear a hot dog pizza is in the works—a la Reginella, perhaps?) Homemade gelato rounds out the offerings.
